SPORTS

Joe Louis is the youngest heavyweight champion ever to hold the coveted title. Pitting his 23 years against the 31 of Braddock, brought another triumph for youth. Braddock showed plenty of skill and grit. Like a bull pup to a root, he hung on till the eighth round. But for every pound of punch he gave he received two from the "Brown Bomber." It was no disgrace to lose the title to a fighter of the calibre of Louis.

Joe Louis represents a "dark cloud with a silver lining." In three years so Joe was a wealthy man before he stepped into the ring last Tuesday night to meet the champion Braddock. Joe was able to add another $110,000 for those few minutes in the ring at Chicago. The "Brown Bomber" climbed the ladder of success rapidly, and on every rung pulled in a heap of shells.

Don Budge is likely to win the Wimbledon Singles, emblematic of the world championship. Don already has the world beaten for homely mug. Tall and ungraceful, his face looked as though he looked down a barrel of a gun loaded with bran. Unchained by a flock of females, all he has to think about is hitting that ball. He does that with a power and a grace superlative. Fred Perry learned the art in England and Budge in California, yet both stroke the ball in the same manner. Holding the racket high, they describe a half circle allowing the gut to meet the ball in a partial undercut.

England has developed a brand of soccer football that leads the world. Judging from the success of the Charlton team that has toured Canada and the States, the boys on this side of the ocean are but juveniles. The English team has a record in Soccer in America, like our Canadian boys show in Europe in Hockey. They have met with no defeats.

The LETTER BOX

(From the Viking News)
Dry Farming or Farming Dry?

The great highway made by the weeds in the past few seasons is being blamed on the drought or insufficient moisture. We all do agree that it is difficult to germinate weed seeds in our fields with scant moisture. It is beyond our power to bring down rain at will, so we must change our system of the good old days to that of "dry farming."

We must endeavor to conserve whatever moisture we do get, particularly during the fall and winter months. The fall cultivation of all stubble land, and especially of the land intended for summerfallow, cannot be too highly advocated. On the farms where this is being done the weeds are not near the menace that they are on farms where no fall cultivation is being done, and which is being plowed into the following summer after most of the weeds which managed to germinate have reseeded themselves. "Farming dry" in my opinion seems to be the most appropriate term for the latter system.

In the spring it is advisable to harrow as soon as practicable, thus making a mulch to prevent undue loss of moisture by evaporation and at the same time to pack the soil around the seeds; this packing is necessary for proper germination, as soon as the weeds have made a fair growth, but by no means permit them to make seed; it is to be well worked either with a cultivator or with the one-way disc. For "dry farming" the old plow of grandfather's is losing favor. For having given the prairie dweller the steel moldboard plow John Deere deserves much credit, but today we have many more modern implements, implements which not only do better work, but do it more economically.

The two terms "Dry Farming" and "Farming Dry" may seem similar at first glance, but what a difference in their meaning. In practice dry farming and farming dry require about the same amount of energy, but what a difference in the results, but what a difference in the results, but what a difference in the results.

Never use a damp or wet cloth or holder in removing a hot dish from the oven or stove. A dry one prevents the heat from penetrating and scorching the fingers.

A thick cherry sauce makes a delicious topping for mint, lime, pineapple, orange or lemon sherbert. It is very good, too, served with vanilla or fruit ice cream.

DELEGATIONS ALONG C. N. R. MAKE REPRESENTATIONS TO PREMIER IN REGARD ENLARGED SCHOOL AREAS

(From the Viking News)

Delegations representing rural and village schools, boards of trade and other organizations in the towns along this line from Irma to Tofield, met with Premier Aberhart, minister of education, and Dr. McNally, deputy minister of education, on Monday afternoon, and put before them their arguments in favor of establishing the proposed enlarged rural school areas along the main lines of travel, east and west, rather than the areas running north and south as already outlined by the department.

The interview and discussions continued for almost two hours, during which time representatives from each center were given an opportunity to be heard. The consensus of opinion of all delegations was that the department should take cognizance of the facts as presented to them, which were in brief as follows:

First, areas to be laid out contiguous to main highways, railroads and bus lines.

Second, recognition of natural trading centres of rural people as centres for enlarged school areas.

Third, advantage of high school and other facilities already established in trading centres.

Viking News Items

A real good rain that was quite general over an area about fifty miles square fell all day Wednesday, June 23rd. From Vegreville on the north to Killam on the south, and from Tofield to the west and Wainwright on the east, the precipitation was over an inch with some districts reporting more. Crop prospects have taken a decided turn for the better, and pastures are looking greener. Another rain or two like that and the crop should be a good one.

Miss Irene Prichard, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Prichard, was united in marriage to Mr. J. F. Howarth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howarth, of Saskatoon, Sask., at the bride's home, south-west of Viking, on Wednesday, June 23rd, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Lee, pastor of the Strone United Church in the presence of immediate relatives and friends.

Tuesday, June 29, was the hottest day ever recorded in Viking. So says the local Weatherman. The thermometer reached an all-time high of 98.5. Scanning the books of past years the records show 96.5 on June 23, 1936, with 95.5 the next best effort back in 1910.

Work on repairing the cement sidewalks on Main street was begun on Monday under the supervision of Ole Ohman.

The Rodino Athletic Club's annual sports day has been set for Wednesday, July 28th.

Fourth, close proximity to hospital, health and medical services.

Fifth, banking facilities and municipal district offices.

Sixth, no rural school to be over 15 miles from main travelled highway in the area proposed, thus making easier access to the centre during all seasons of the year.

The delegates were given an attentive and courteous hearing by the premier and deputy minister, who were quite interested in the proposals. The premier felt that it should be quite possible to map out areas along the lines proposed by the delegation. The deputy minister was not quite so enthusiastic and put forth the department's views in having outlined the areas along different lines.

However the upshot of the matter was that the deputy minister challenged the delegation to map out an area as proposed having in mind the boundaries of already established areas.

The challenge was taken up and a committee is now at work on same.

Introductions were made by Mr. A. E. Fee, M.L.A. for Sedgewick constituency, and Dr. McPherson, M.L.A. for Vegreville constituency.

July, 1933. Such a sizzling temperature as on Tuesday brings back memories of that glorious day when it was 69 below.

On account of having to spend all day Monday in Edmonton with a delegation interviewing the department of education in regard to enlarged areas, and setting before them the advantages of Viking being a centre for one of the areas, the editor did not have time to finish the "Train Tracks and Car Trails" article which should have appeared this week. We hope to finish this series next week.

Everything points to a real sports day at Viking next Wednesday, July 7th. Business men and citizens are asked to decorate their premises and fly flags so as to give the town a holiday appearance. See posters for particulars of the big doings.

Ormond Mercier was in Edmonton last Thursday where he purchased a pure bred two-year-old filly which he took home in a truck. It's a real horse and Ormond is being congratulated on his choice.

The Rodino Athletic Club's annual sports day has been set for Wednesday, July 28th.

MARIAN LONGMIRE IS COMPLIMENTED

The June meeting of the Irma Ladies' Aid was well attended. This meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Jan Fenton.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. Strange, Director, Research Department, Searle Grain Co., Ltd.

Gold is once again a matter of grave concern to statesmen.

When the prices of all commodities fell precipitously in 1929, many Governments, against the advice of the best economists, revalued gold, suspended gold payments, and printed large quantities of paper money in order to make commodity prices rise.

The desired effect was achieved, but economists warned the Governments that in consequence the production in gold would become greatly expanded, and that commodity prices and the cost of living would certainly rise to high levels.

Governments are now fearful that these forecasts are coming true, and so they are taking of reducing the production of gold, and of making it worth less money, so as to reduce in turn the prices of all products, and so of the cost of living.

If this is done, however, many people, wheat producers in particular, will certainly be seriously harmed.

The wiser plan, it would seem, would be for Governments not to tamper with gold again, but redistribute it to the nations that urgently need it, and particularly to remove the present harsh restrictions against trade so that an abundance of goods and products may be made available to all the people. Then all the gold will be needed to support the increased world trade.

Following factors have tended to raise price:—

Rust affecting northern U. S. winter wheat area and present in spring wheat area; wheat bolted beyond resuscitation in large area of Western Canada; Fear of too much moisture in U. S. winter wheat for European blending purposes; German purchases considerable quantity of Argentine corn; South African prune crop a failure.

Following factors have tended to lower price:—

U. S. wheat offered in Europe at attractive prices; Broomhall reiterates Russia likely to export wheat and barley this summer; U. S. winter wheat harvest again progressing; Most European crop conditions im- light rains received in Argentine; prove.

A Great Menace

The automobile speed artist is a great menace on the highways but he is not the greatest source of danger to the lives and limbs of other users of the open roads.

The man who drives at night with one light ablaze and the other extinguished perhaps epitomizes the maximum peril on the highway, not only to himself and other occupants of the car he is piloting but to other drivers and the occupants of their automobiles. Certainly as a potential destroyer he ranks only second to the driver with liquor-laden breath.

The one-light driver is dangerous to the drivers and occupants of other cars whom he meets travelling in the opposite direction, because the "safety" driver is unable to tell whether the single light is on the high or the off side of the approaching car. If it happens to be the off side light that is burning the driver meeting him may be fooled and make insufficient allowance for clearance. The result is a terrific crash, serious injuries and perhaps death.

The natural instinct of the "safety" driver meeting a one-light car is to give the other fellow as wide a berth as possible, because of the uncertainty as to which side of the approaching car is lighted. But here, too, there is a risk that he may plunge into the ditch in his efforts to ensure adequate clearance.

Under any conditions the one-light driver is a danger to others as well as to himself, but particularly is this the case when cars travelling in the same direction are passing one another with a single-lamp car approaching in the opposite direction.

Distances at night time are deceptive, even to the most experienced drivers. When both lights are burning it is not too easy to gauge the distance and speed of an approaching car. To many drivers the oncoming car from the opposite direction may appear a considerable distance away whereas it is actually close at hand and vice versa.

The only guide that one has as to distance and the speed of an automobile approaching at night time is the apparent distance between the two lamps and the rapidity with which this distance diverges as the car approaches.

At a considerable distance away the two lights of the approaching car appear to be practically merged into one. Observing this, the "safety" driver perceives that he has plenty of time to pass a car in front of him proceeding in the same direction and pull back on to the right side of the road before the car travelling in the opposite direction passes.

But, if instead of the approaching car being an automobile with two lights showing at a considerable distance away, it is a car with only one lamp alight close by and approaching at speed, the drivers and occupants of three cars are in deadly peril and through no fault of any person except the operator of the one-light car.

It is probably doubtful whether the operator of a one-light car has any conception of the risks he runs and of the peril that he is to other night travellers on the highway or he would surely not embark on such a mad enterprise without first seeing to it that both lamps are in good working order.

If he does appreciate the risks that his defective lighting system entails and knows of their condition, then he can only be regarded as guilty of gross and culpable recklessness and should be dealt with in the light of such an indictment.

There are occasions, no doubt, when one of a pair of headlights will become extinguished through a globe burning out, a short circuit or other defect which has developed after the night journey has commenced. Under those circumstances the operator cannot be held as culpable as the driver who fares forth on a trip, knowing in advance that he can show only one light and who does not remedy the defect before darkness sets in. Even the former, however, if he is as alert as he should be, should be able to perceive by the appearance of the beam on the road ahead of him that one of his lamps is not giving service.

The man with the glaring headlights on his car is a dangerous driver but the driver only showing one light is a still greater menace and the man who knowingly drives on the highway with only one lamp burning should be brought to book on every possible occasion and dealt with without compunction.

Such cases should be reported to the authorities by all travellers on the highway who have occasion to come in contact with them or to observe them and the law should be allowed to take its course without let or hindrance.

Until the driving public fully appreciate the seriousness of the offence and report every infraction which comes to their attention, the one-light driver will continue gaily on his way with death at his elbow ready to claim him and those whom he meets.

Generous Donation

Large Sum Given To Empire As A Tribute To Stanley Baldwin

An anonymous donor has given £250,000 ($1,225,000) to the empire as a tribute to the way Stanley Baldwin handled the abdication crisis, it was disclosed in the lobbies of the House of Commons.

The donor said he wanted to make a "thanks offering" for the former prime minister's "courageous, far-seeing and sympathetic handling of a supremely difficult situation, which averted incalculable dangers for the empire."

The money was placed at the disposal of the premier for the purpose of "endowing any object best calculated to strengthen still further" the ties that bind the empire.

Preserving Ancient Art

Work Of Indians Being Perpetuated In Saskatchewan Clay

Cameron Worcester, B.A., LL.B., of Saskatoon, is perpetuating in native clay ancient arts of the North American Indians and their contact with trail blazers of the old west.

The potter who is 29, and son of Prof. W. G. Worcester, head of the department of Ceramics, University of Saskatchewan, turned from law to study early art of the Redmen.

Young Worcester learned that Saskatchewan clays, which have not been used to any great extent, offer an ideal medium for the potter's art, and many fields are yet to be explored.

He has modelled heads of Sioux chiefs and Creses in headdress and warpaint, but most of his work is given to nature studies. He has found Indians preferred to draw animals and birds.

Scenery Can Be Enjoyed

View In Australia Is Not Blocked By Billboards

When Australians go motoring they can take in whatever scenery is handy without having their view blocked by billboards. In the state of Victoria alone, not a billboard is to be seen on 10,000 miles of highway. W. T. B. McCormack, chairman of the state's country roads board, said: He has just completed a month's study of western Canadian and United States road systems.

Air Hero Penalties

Capt. Errol Boyd, first Canadian to fly the Atlantic, has fallen on evil days. The man who was commended as a general in the army at Italy and has spent 7,200 hours in the air, has received an eviction order in his home town, Toronto. His furniture has been seized and he faces the prospect of soon being homeless, penniless with his wife and four daughters.

Sir Eric Geddes

The Chairman Of Imperial Airways Dies In England

Sir Eric Geddes, chairman of Imperial Airways and of the Dunlop Rubber Company, died at his home in Sussex recently, at the age of 61. He was first lord of the admiralty during the closing years of the Great War and a brother of Sir Auckland Geddes, former ambassador to the United States.

Geddes, as chairman of Imperial Airways, had been engaged with plans for inaugurating trans-Atlantic service until his recent illness. His death came less than two weeks before the scheduled start of the experiment flights by his company and Pan-American Airways.

A businessman, discovered by Lloyd George for war service, he passed with rapidity through a succession of high positions and was one of the driving forces behind the country's war efforts.

His first war post was deputy director-general of the munitions supply. In 1916 he was appointed director of general transportation for the British forces in France and was shortly recalled to England as director-general of military railways and inspector-general of transportation in all theatres of the war.

Entering parliament in 1917 as Conservative member for Cambridge University, Sir Eric became first lord of the admiralty, remaining at that post until 1918. He was later minister of transport.

Chickens Are Excepted

Motorists In United States Not Held For Striking Them

The privilege of a chicken to delay to the last minute its decision as to whether it will cross a road ahead of an automobile is considerably abridged in the State of New York by a bill amending the vehicle and traffic law which Governor Herbert H. Lehman has just signed. It amends the law under which a motorist could be held for striking or killing a chicken or any domestic animal.

The amended law requires a motorist whose car has struck a horse, a dog or any one of several animals classified as cattle, to report to the owner of the animal or to the police or a judicial officer, exhibiting his license and giving his name and address. In such cases an arrest may be made without a warrant. Chickens, however, are excepted—Charlottesville Guardian.

Death Dealing Chemicals

Have Retarded Genuine Research For Past Twenty Years

The research scientist with his eyes fixed on the dollar sign rather than on alleviation of suffering can find the quickest and easiest road to wealth by seeking employment from governments as an inventor of deadly gases and other death-dealing agencies, declared Professor Antoine Lacassagne, assistant director of the Radium Institute of Paris, at Ottawa. Professor Lacassagne, who collaborated with Madame Curie, discoverer of radium, was in Ottawa to address the joint conference of the Canadian Medical Association and the Ontario Medical Association. The Great War may have increased man's knowledge of death-dealing chemicals and apparatus, Professor Lacassagne declared, but it retarded genuine medical research by almost a decade.

Enlarge Panama Canal

Plans Drafted For Work That Will Require Ten Years To Complete

Panama canal officials disclosed preliminary plans are being drafted to enlarge the "big ditch" at an estimated cost of $150,000,000. A bigger canal, they said, will be necessary to take care of an expected increase in traffic. It was emphasized that work on the plans would probably take 10 years. Another 10 years would be devoted to construction, and the proposed new locks would not be in operation before 1960. Installation of the new locks would cost approximately $150,000,000.

Rules Over Island

South African Pays Small Sum Yearly To Cover Lease

"Who would like to be king of a pleasant island set in sub-tropical seas... Lord of all he surveys down to the sands which are lapped by waves breaking in from the Pacific Ocean?" asks a writer in the Johannesburg Star. "And with the price of his throne only six pounds a year?"

Who would not? There is a South African who has achieved this. His name he wishes to keep, but anyone reading this who guesses it from his initials, A. T. A., is entitled to do so. For A. T. A. has gone out of the world as we know it and has bought one of his own.

It is a delightful island. Situated in the midst of coral-channelled seas, among other islands which are gems of sapphire set above white sands and fringed with blue waters, where the sun is a powerful filter and the moon a soft, tropical veil; in fact, where every prospect pleases excepting, and even man is not vile—the world of the Great Barrier Reef of Australia.

He has made an amazing purchase, merely by paying the Australian Government £6 a year he has been given the lease of an island in the Barrier Reef waters. For a little more than 2s.-a-week he has made himself a king. A. T. A.'s first "Royal" act has shown his appreciation of his bargain. Previously his island was marked on charts as Carlisle Island. Now, by a decree royal extraordinary, it is known as Paradise Island.

Canadian Medical Association

Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie Is President For Coming Year

The Canadian Medical Association meeting at Ottawa named Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie president-elect for 1938-39, and decided tentatively to hold its 1938 annual meeting in Halifax, Dr. MacKenzie's home town. Dr. MacKenzie is professor of medicine at Dalhousie University, his own alma mater. For a number of years he has represented Nova Scotia on the executive committee of the Canadian Medical Association and before that was a member of its council.

The 1937 president-elect of the association, who will succeed Dr. Herman M. Robertson, of Victoria, is Dr. T. H. Leggett of Ottawa. Other officers elected to serve with Dr. Leggett include following members of the executive council: Dr. G. F. Strong, Vancouver; Dr. D. S. Macnab, Calgary; Dr. J. E. Bloomer, Moose Jaw.

An Important Discovery

Glass Drinking Horns Used By Saxons 1,400 Years Ago

Glass drinking horns which were filled with mead to slake the Saxon thirst about 1,400 years ago have been unearthed in a sandpit between Rainham and Upminster, Essex, England.

G. T. Carter, a Romford archaeologist, who found the decorated curved horns, also unearthed relics of the stone, bronze and iron ages. Some of them are on exhibition at the British museum, where an official described them as "sensational."

"The horns are the finest ever found in this country," Mr. Carter said.

"The discoveries are so important because they show that this tract of marsh and forest in South Essex has been in almost continuous human occupation."

"Hitherto there has been no evidence of Saxon life on the north bank of the Thames, and it was believed that the Britons held the north side of the estuary."

Every Year Sees Increase In Parties Visiting Russia

More than 100 conducted tours from this continent will visit the Soviet Union this summer, according to Vladimir E. Pavlov, president of Intourist Inc., travel representatives for the U.S.S.R. A majority of the parties will make studies and observations of special phases of Soviet life, while others will go for general travel interest. Mr. Pavlov says the number of organized parties to the U.S.S.R. is increasing yearly.

Sixty Thousand Canadian Indians Will Get Treaty Money

Officials of the Indians Affairs branch of the department of mines and resources, travelling by air, canoe and on foot, will leave shortly for the isolated districts of Northern Canada for the annual distribution of treaty money to the Indians.

Aboriginal settlers who have been ceding their rights to the Dominion as frontiers push northward during the past 60 years, receive an annual gift of $4 per head, and collection of this money is the big event of the year among the Indians.

Treaty Indians are found in parts of Ontario, and in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, and the Northwest Territories but there are none in Quebec, the Maritime Provinces or British Columbia. They are those who themselves signed away their aboriginal rights to territory or direct descendants of treaty signers. Children of Indians marrying whites are not eligible.

There are about 112,000 Indians in Canada, and approximately 60,000 receive the $4 per head treaty money annually. The Indian population is slowly increasing.

Telephones Scarce In Japan So People Buy Them

There is a telephone shortage in Japan, the only country in the world where subscribers have to "buy" their telephones instead of renting them.

Every year the ministry of communications offers a certain number of telephones for sale. This year 55,000 were offered to the public and 787,549 applications were received.

The post office accepts ordinary applications for a telephone, but there is such a long waiting list that it may not be installed for years. So telephones are bought and sold through brokers at a high premium.

A Story of the Irish on the Canadian Countryside

By PATRICK SLATER

By arrangement with Thomas Allen, Publisher, Toronto.

"You are very backward, Paddy," he told me, "in your book learning. You are too talkative by far, and you are an annoyance to me in the school. I shall set you your task at home. You gain very little at the school, anyway. As well might I try coaxing the stars out of the sky into my hand, Paddy, as try pounding sense into those dunder-heads."

The first care of a boy like me, he told me, should be to think and speak his thoughts clearly in the simple words of the English tongue. And to do that, the boy must know what his words mean and be the master of many of them.

"I will have no gabble-guts about Whistling Hill," declared Old Hickory Mick, "tighen up the belt of your tongue."

The master put me under a rigid discipline; and had great patience with me because he knew I was trying desperately to please him. Ten new fresh words a day—to taste them by rolling them on my tongue, to pronounce them in a clear, ringing voice, to use them in their precise shades of meaning, and to use them freely and naturally in conversation—that was my daily task. The whole matter is clear to me now. The human brain cannot reason without words. A man cannot pasture even on his own thoughts save with the aid of words. In a year's time, I could quote almost every statement made by Christ on earth. I was learning English grammar, not by committing stupid rules to memory, but by hearing the language correctly spoken. I could, in time, labor through the stilted, crabbed editorials in the semi-weekly Globe newspaper; though I preferred greatly the new story of Dombey & Son, which was printed as a serial when not crowded out by other stupid matters. While I was with Michael Hughes, I was carried on some way also into other things, and for a poor orphan boy, I have never felt that my education was sadly neglected.

"One does not get learning in a school for its own sweet sake," Michael told me one day, years after, "as we were fishing, in the creek for trout."

"All one gets there," he continued, "is merely the tools that enable the brain to work. Now I would have you observe," he told me, "that fishing for these little trout is a real education for any person, young or old. The fisherman, as you observe, gets a splendid training in patience and perseverance. At the same time, the mind is getting a rest and is recreating itself. [Take ahold, you little devil!] And such an education is practical because its rewards become gross and palpable in the frying pan. [Quit wriggling, my little beauty!]"

"It is possible, Paddy," he told me, "for the human brain to be so crowded with facts and the trifling gear of knowledge that no space has been left there for sane thinking to be done. Some very learned men,

THIS BACKACHE IS AN AGONY!

KIDNEYS WILL CAUSE IT!
Stagnant kidneys let poisons accumulate in your system. Lame back, lumbago and rheumatic pains often follow. GIN PILLS will give the kidneys the help they need to filter out the poisons that cause the pain. "Prove their merit through their use!"

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

What quarrels dire we both have had
This year of sorrow sabbie!
But oh, my bounding heart is glad
To see you crown the table!

Dear fondling of the nuptial nest,
My father kind, my mother blest,
My upper coat, my inner vest,
I'll hold you while I'm able!

Mr. Murphy, the tavern keeper, came in and spoke to me. "Faith happy I'd be, little lad, if you could get Old Hickory out of the place and keep him away from the tavern forever. But I know the man. He'll not budge out the door this night, unless he is thrown out. Run away home! The drink is already starting to gnaw at their innards; and they will soon be rough and quarrelsome."

One of the fish kings from Adajala Township was busy singing Colleen Rue. Michael was insisting that the man shut up.

"Have some of his friends come for him in the morning," Mr. Murphy asked me, as I set off for home. "It's a sick man they'll be finding!"

Mr. Marshall sent the bobbleigh over next morning to bring Michael back to Whistling Hill. The groans of him were filling the whole tavern. Hunched down in a chair, the man looked as weak as a wet rag. His face was chalky and dripping with clammy moisture. Mrs. Murphy was coaxing hot green tea into his rebellious stomach.

"Oh! God have mercy! Woman, I am a sick man! Oh, God, I am a sick woman!" he wailed, holding his pin-wracked head, and retching without throwing up the rubbish.

"Yes! cry out, you scoundrel!" she scolded him. "Sure, a bawling calf always finds its mother first! Hear him cry!"

Poor Michael got a swallow of tea down him.

"And you will be up to your tricks again, too, Michael Hughes," she warned him. "But don't be coming back here disgracing a respectable public house!"

We bundled Michael up and drove him home. Mrs. Murphy slipped me a small task as we were leaving.

"Don't let him smell it or it will sicken the man entirely," said she. "But put a few drops into his tea on the side like, to-day; it will help to numb the gnawing of his innards."

It was a miserable time the man had while his body was purging itself of the poisons; and Michael always came out of a debauch with a humbled heart and a chastened spirit. He consoled himself for a week after by reading the Georgics of old Virgilus Maro, and wearied me with the sound of them.

In the course of my duties at Whistling Hill, I got to know a lot about this business of whiskey drinking. I am not, of course, referring to the steady, sedate, daily drinking of hard liquor, which becomes a regular habit with many, but the sort of whom live to a great age and go to their graves as respected and successful members of their communities. A true history of the British Isles would demonstrate that every high office under the crown has been occupied, one time or another, by a gentleman who made a regular practice of consuming over twenty ounces of Scotch whiskey a day—generals in charge of armies in the field, judges of high appellate courts, prime ministers—is it necessary to name them? My concern was not with a man who took alcohol in such regular dosage that his body tolerated it as a food. He never kept a drop of liquor about the house; and at ordinary times the very smell of it was unpleasant to his nostrils. The condition of his nerves seemed to create at intervals a craving which he fought for days, but which usually overcame him. Like a journeyman barber of to-day, he usually held out till a Friday. And when he drank, he poured hard liquor down on the quivery and irritated nerves of a cross and empty stomach. A rebellion promptly broke out. In consequence, Michael Hughes was a drunkard; and in the end, he broke his neck by falling through an open trap-door in a tavern.

He would have come to a sad end at an earlier date had Mrs. Murphy not given me some sound advice.

"Keep him away from here as long as you can," she urged me. "When you see the fit coming on, dope a spoonful of brandy into his tea. That will give him a false appetite. Then feed him thick pea soup and put butter into it with a heavy hand," the kind woman advised me. "A man with a good sound of oil on his belly lining can drink a whole company under the table."

Which I still think was expert advice. And speaking of destructive and perverse habits and appetites, a

Want International Park

Proposal Is Made In Respect To Part Of B.C. And The Yukon

President Roosevelt was represented as "very receptive" to a plan to make part of British Columbia and the Yukon into an international park and Skagway, Alaska, a free port. Under the project envisioned by Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach of Washington and Delegate Anthony Dimond, of Alaska, the section of Canada dipping southwestward toward Skagway, Alaska, from Chil-koot Pass to the Chisana-White River Pass on the eastern border of Alaska would be made into an "international park."

For months the two have been considering the scheme to obtain from Canada sufficient land to provide an "inside route" for United States flyers between Skagway and the main body of Alaska. At present aviators must fly over Canadian soil, which involves international law, or skirt the rugged, glacier-bound coast—a hazardous undertaking in winter.

They explained by making the block of country an international playground citizens of the United States as well as Canada would have access to it, or could fly over it without customs restrictions.

In exchange for Canada's concession of land, the United States would, under proposal, make Skagway a free port, thus giving Canadians in adjacent Yukon free access to the sea without annoyance of present United States regulations.

Discounts Old Legends

Well-Known Story About Lady Godiva Does Not Escape

C Coventry to-day not only honors its most famous woman, Lady Godiva, but also "Peeping Tom," who was supposed to have been struck blind for peeping on her famous ride through the city's streets.

Lady Godiva herself has two statues in Coventry, one in the Guild hall, the other in the Great Hall. Hundreds of tourists to England visit the two each summer. "Peeping Tom" is also immortalized in Coventry, presumably as a bad example, with several effigies. These are each in a different part of the city, but all purport to mark the exact spot where he was struck blind.

Both Lady Godiva and "Peeping Tom" have come in for their share of debunking in recent years. It now turns out that the legend of "Peeping Tom" did not appear in the first story of the ride, but was added years later as an afterthought.

As for Lady Godiva, a Benedictine abbey founded by her in 1043 once gave proof of her existence. That, unfortunately, was destroyed by Henry VIII, and while most people still admit that she was a real person, they doubt she ever made the ride. No documentary evidence of it turned up until 150 years after her death and such rides, detractors say, are common in old folk traditions. Lady Godiva's name, the debunkers say, was attached to such a legend to do honor to her piety and goodness.

Party From Germany Travel Far In Search For Work

Two men and a woman sailed into Capetown, South Africa, in their five-ton yawl, after an adventurous voyage from Germany, their food and water supply about exhausted. They are Frederick Bruggatis and his wife, and Heinz Matthes. Originally there were four, but one died of fever off the west coast. Their ship, the Stella Maris had travelled 12,000 miles. The party set out with the idea of finding work in foreign countries, but so far they have been away from their country since August 1, 1935. They stayed at Angola six months hunting big game.

Make Use Of Waste Gas

Can Convert Turner Valley Oil Into Fuel For Automobiles

Application of modern chemical knowledge can convert waste natural gases of Alberta's Turner Valley oil field into fuel for automobiles and other industrial products with consequent increased production value. Dr. A. Cambron, of the national research council, of Ottawa, said. Dr. Cambron, addressing the Canadian Chemical Association's annual convention at Vancouver, said increasing demand for some of the products which can be derived from natural gas, and improvements in production processes, will "probably make such a development profitable in the near future."

Only location of the field and restricted coal markets has made chemical processing of the gas at Turner Valley unprofitable to date, he said.

Little Helps For This Week

I will arise and go to my Father, Luke 15:18.

O my God, my Father, hear And help me to believe; Weak and weary I draw near, Thy child O God receive. I so oft have gone astray To the perfect Guide I flee, Thou wilt turn me not away, Thy love is pledged to me.

If thou hast fallen, arise and go to thy Father like the prodigal son and humbly say, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and before Thee and am no more worthy to be called Thy son. Make me as one of Thy hired servants." And thy heavenly Father will do what the father in the parable did. He will not change His love for the sake of thy misdoings. It is a small thing for Him to forgive Thee if thou believe in Him, for His hand is not shortened that it cannot make thee fit to be saved.

BY THE WAY

Use muffin tins for cooking tomatoes, apples, stuffed peppers, onions, etc. They will keep their shape much better. Mold jellies also in muffin tins if you have no individual molds, turn on plates and place hot towel over them and they will slip out easily.

Powdered or confectioner's sugar that has become lumpy should be pressed through a fine-meshed sieve or rolled with a rolling pin. Pastry made with too much water is tough and hard. Use only enough water to hold ingredients together, mix quickly roll and handle as little as possible.

To remove white marks from furniture, caused by water or heat, wash with warm water and soap. Wipe dry and sponge with alcohol (rubbing will do). Rub with furniture polish applied on a soft cloth and you will be pleased with results.

MOTORISTS PAY

The authority which governments take to impose legal prohibitions on business, might with propriety sometimes be applied to themselves.

Is there any tenable argument, for instance, why car owners should be singled out as the victims of the persistent frequently budget-bolstering grabs of the taxing authorities. The motorist of small income gives from 12 to 15 days of his year's work to pay taxes clamped upon him simply because he owns a car. This was the recent finding of a survey conducted by the American petroleum industries, the accuracy of which may be challenged in some quarters on the ground of bias.

But the motorist will suspect it may be on the side of conservatism. He does not need to be told that over Canada as a whole the automotive tax burden he now bears, is out of all proportions to his income. Neither does he need to be told that the levy on gasoline is an undisguised sales tax on a necessity for thousands in his income class. Nor does he require an adding machine to prove to his satisfaction that it falls heaviest on the man of moderate means who can least afford to pay it.

His plight would be bad enough if his money were used for his benefit. But when most of it is diverted to other purposes, surely as a matter of common fairness, there ought to be a legal prohibition against such wholesale diversion. —Contributed.

A Seasonable Warning

"And oh, it might never have happened if somebody in the crowd had been a good swimmer and known something about life saving tactics." How often this remark may be made after a drowning tragedy. How frequently the news of the accident ends with, "None of the party knew how to swim."

Most deaths by drowning are avoidable. A non-swimmer ventures beyond his depth. A mediocre swimmer over-estimates his endurance. An inexperienced canoeist ventures far out into the lake without regard to the warning threats of the weather.

As the warm days of summer lure us to swimming beaches, to pools, lakes and streams, the subject of accidental drowning begins to assume serious importance. As the weeks pass by most editors will be called upon to tell the tragic details of the loss of some promising young life, a victim of thoughtlessness and carelessness.

We offer a few words of warning in the hope that they may help deter some reckless youth or some careless adult from challenging the fates which smile beneath the placid surface of our lakes and streams.

If you are not experienced on the water never venture far from shore with a small boat or canoe. If wind rises keep your head. Put your weight in the bottom of the boat and hold for shore. Do not rock the boat in fun. To play with death is never humorous.

Unless you are an old and experienced swimmer never venture far from shore or swim where you cannot easily converse with those in the shallow water. Never hazard a long swim unless you are accompanied by a good swimmer with a boat. Never try to scare those who cannot swim as well as you. It does not advance your status as a gentleman or a good scout.

If you are called upon to effect a rescue exercise extreme care. Approach the victim from under water if possible. Conserve your own strength. Call and wait for help. A spirit of frenzy will never help to meet an emergency. Above all if there are no expert swimmers in the crowd counsel caution and care. If there are, they will probably assume that responsibility for you.—Ex.
